

HP3-5R

(Five reinforcement profiles)

This type of pallet is ideal for the food industry, pharmaceutical logistics and for all conditions that require a perfect combination of mechanical performance and the highest health requirements. The new inner round corners ensure the smoothest transmission through automatic conveyor systems and minimize the risk of pallets getting stuck and damaged. This type of pallet has perfectly smooth and flat surfaces that prevent the accumulation of dirt and dust. This type of pallet is available in two forms, three runners or five runners.

this type of pallet with integrated reinforcement profiles is an ideal pallet in the heavy-duty category. Its strength and durability make it suitable for high racking systems and automated process.

The material used to manufacture this type of pallet is food-grade.

Capable of being used in racking systems due to having 5 runners
